First Row

Second Row

Third Row

Note:

In Tunisian crochet, also known as afghan stitch, there are two steps to completing a row. There is a forward row AND a returning row. At the end of the forward row, you complete the return row without turning the work. These two steps make up a row. (Odd-numbered rows are worked from right to left, and involve "picking up" stitches onto the hook, similar to knitting. The even-numbered rows will be worked in reverse, that is left to right, binding off the stitches.) The finish to most Tunisian crochet is a row of slip stitches. The ending yarn should be on the left side of the work facing you.

Tip:

Once you get accustomed to NOT turning your work at the end of a row, you'll be delighted at how quickly the project will go.
